Wild well specialist slowed by weather

By Stuart Adams

Efforts to cap an Amoco Canada sour gas well blowout near Lodgepole were continuing as of Monday. Joe Bowden's crew from the Houston, Texas-based Wild Well Control have been experiencing difficulties as a result of unfavorable wind conditions, but at a Sunday night press conference he said progress is being made.

"We're having some difficult times," he said, "but it's due to a lack of wind."

Amoco environmental manager Ron Findlay, a participant at the same conference, described the conditions on the well site. "We have an inversion with the gas plume where it's going straight up and coming straight down."

He said the readings of the dangerous hydrogen sulphide gas have been fluctuating from a "safe" one part per million to hazardous levels registering in the low hundred parts per million.

The constantly changing conditions moved Amoco to shut down the operation on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Bowden said if they get a wind which will disperse the gas their job will be much easier.

He said that although no two blowouts are the same, in general this well is no different than any other except for the hydrogen sulphide gas.

He arrived on the site on Oct. 19, two days after the accident occurred. On Friday night Amoco district superintendent Wayne Heth said a plan of operations was formulated that night and orders were placed for the necessary equipment. "We had to get some unique equipment which wasn't available here and we had to go to such places as Houston, Tuktoyaktuk and St. John's."

He said that the winds were unfavorable the following day and little was done as a result. Further reconnaisance was carried out as well as extensive air monitoring.

"By Thursday we started to prepare not only the lease, but the staging areas adjacent to it to receive the equipment," he said.

He added that two routes were needed into the lease as well as the staging area.

As of Friday he said the "lion's share of the equipment is in place" and "the well has been prepared for receiving the equipment from the staging area."

He hoped that a 50 ton crane could be moved on-

Open house by county

By Chris Shanahan

An open house entitled "Expose Yourself" will be held in Tomahawk on Nov. 4 by the County of Parkland parks and recreation department.

County recreation director Mary Tourneur explained that the exposure forum will offer county residents an opportunity to discover the various services the department provides.

"The main purpose is to expose the leisure and recreation services throughout the county," she said. "People can just drop in and take a look."

The local session will be held at the Tomahawk School from 7 to 10 p.m.

Some of the planned activities are workshops on positive parenting and chocolate making, plus a hunter training display, according to Mrs. Tourneur.

Other agencies on hand to provide information will include the Further Education Council, Multicultural Heritage Centre, Pembina Educational Consortium, Drayton Valley Presents and Park Valley Arts Council.

Staff and board members from the county will also be present to answer any questions, she added.

HALLOWE'EN IS ON THE WAY and Jeffrey Buchan had his hands full of bats in Diane Perdue's kindergarten class at St. Anthony's.

Watch out for those toddlers and goblins on Hallowe'en night

On the last day of October, scores of miniature monsters will once again be skittering around the neighborhood, but for some of them, trick or treat may well turn into tragedy.

The Alberta Motor Association (AMA) suggests a few extra precautions on the part of motorists, parents and children could forestall such disasters this Hallowe'en.

Of utmost importance if children are to walk near traffic is adequate visibility, according to Art Price, AMA public relations manager.

The use of retro-reflective material is an easy, effective and inexpensive way to make sure trick or treaters can readily be seen, Mr. Price suggests.

He also recommends substituting make-up for masks, floppy hats, beards and veils, all of which interfere with a child's vision. In addition, provide the child with a flashlight which can serve a dual purpose of lighting their path and warning any oncoming motorist or cyclist of their proximity.

The AMA also reminds parents to review basic pedestrian safety rules when preparing youngsters for their night of fun. The importance of crosswalks and traffic signals should not be overlooked in the excitement of rushing from house to house.

Adults may also help by providing adequate lighting on porches and sidewalks, where possible. And careful parents will want to warn children of potential fire hazards such as candlelit Jack-o-lanterns, and inspect edible treats for potentially lethal additives.

Tips for a safe Hallowe'en are:

Try to trick-or-treat when it is still light outside.

Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see and be seen.

If you must go out at night, make certain that your costume is light in color.

Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen easily.

Use reflective tape on your costume so people driving cars can see you.

A face mask will keep you from seeing well. Take off your mask before you cross a street.

If someone older cannot go with you, trick-or-treat with a group of children.

If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic.

RCMP busy with minor violations

The Drayton Valley detachment received a report from Ron Barker of 5073 44th St. that his residence had been unlawfully entered and a sum of money taken. RCMP have a suspect in the case, and Constable Pat Irvine is continuing the investigation.

Perry May of 5012 43rd St. in Drayton Valley reported that sometime on Oct. 23 or 24, all four tires and mags were stolen from his 1974 'Cuda. Corporal Tom Turner said. The vehicle was parked at the rear of the residence.

RCMP are investigating a suspected break and enter at the curling rink. Cpl. Turner said some curling rocks were thrown down the rink, causing slight damage to the ice surface. The lock to the stairway leading to the upstairs lounge was apparently forced open with a wrecking bar, but RCMP could not find anything missing, he added. An investigation is continuing by Cst. Bill Watkins.

RCMP received a call on Oct. 25 claiming that sometime on Oct. 22, persons unknown had kicked in the side of a van owned by Dean Boulter of Drayton Valley. Approximately $250 damage was caused to the vehicle which was parked in the parking lot of the Westwind Motor Inn at the time. Cpl. Tom Turner said an investigation is continuing.

Five hunters from the Calgary area were charged with possession of uncapped liquor on Oct. 24 when spotted by Drayton Valley RCMP on the Wolf Lake Road, Cpl. Turner said.

Cpl. Turner said that on Oct. 24, four persons from the Edmonton area were charged with hunting on Sunday under the Wildlife Act. They were found on the Elk River Road. The party was also charged with possession of a narcotic, Cpl. Turner added.

Dave Cohen of Beaumont reported on Oct. 24 that he found a well-kept large dog near the forestry station in Lodgepole, according to Cpl. Turner. The dog has a whitish face and legs, with a fawn-colored body. It is believed to be a Malamute-Collie cross. Inquiries can be made at the Drayton Valley detachment.

On Oct. 25, Dale Christenson of the Seba Beach area reported that his 1975 yellow Chevrolet three-quarter ton truck was stolen from the parking lot at the Tomahawk Hotel. The theft apparently occurred sometime on Oct. 24, Cpl. Turner said.

RCMP recovered a 1979 Chrysler on Oct. 25 from a lease just north of the Rocky Rapids store, according to Cpl. Turner. The vehicle was reported stolen by Edmonton City Police.

to the well site the next day to remove equipment from the floor of the rig resulting from the accident. He said the drill pipe had broken off about one foot above the floor of the rig. The crane was needed to remove the remaining broken section lying on the floor. Again, unfavorable conditions Saturday thwarted the attempt.

In a press release issued by Amoco last Sunday plans were outlined to divert the gas from the wellhead through specially installed equipment to be placed over it to two flare stacks about 1,000 feet from the well. "The gas will then be ignited and burned in a controlled manner," was contained in the release.

"When controlled burning at the flare stacks begins, access to the wellsite by the well control crew will be much less hazardous and work can begin to prepare the site so that the second major step in controlling the well can get under way."

"This step involves pumping heavy drilling mud down the well bore to counterbalance the upward thrust of the gas from below ground.

"When that counterbalance has been achieved the well will be fully under control."

At the press conference Mr. Bowden said the plan was one of three which were discussed. "We decided on this one because it was the safest and the fastest," he said.

Once the equipment is all in place he expected it would take about two days to bring the well under control.

In the meantime residents as far away as Edmonton have experienced the "rotten egg" smell from the hydrogen sulphide gas. In the Drayton Valley and Lodgepole area the discomfort has been more severe.

However, Ron Findlay said there is no health hazard to area residents. "These concentrations are more in the obnoxious range."

Amoco took no chances with the Pembina River being "about a quarter of a mile away," according to Wayne Heth. The Town of Evansburg, which draws its water from the river, was advised immediately after the blowout to convert to its well system.

"We detected a hydrocarbon odor in the water," said Mr. Findlay.

He said the odor was also of the obnoxious nature and no hydrogen sulphide was detected in the water. "We have aerators in the Pembina River and we feel it will handle the problem," he added.

"Once the odor is totally removed from the water through turbulation and aeration we will ask them to turn on the water from the river again."

Given the difficulties with the weather, Amoco officials were unable to comment on when the well might be brought under control.

4-H'ers to hold leader workshop

Lend a hand to clean our land!

By Chris Shanahan

A wide variety of homemaking activities will be featured at a workshop for area 4-H leaders to be held in Drayton Valley tomorrow (Oct. 28).

The session is designed to familiarize leaders and assistant leaders with some of the new programs offered within the Barrhead 4-H region, chairperson Janice McGregor explained.

It's being sponsored by the provincial home economics 4-H division.

Things will get under way between 9:30 and 10 a.m., and wind up in the late afternoon. Four or five local homemaker leaders are expected to take part, along with many more from other areas.

Morning sessions will include quilting, nutrition fun and gardening, as well as photography, according to Ms. McGregor. The afternoon will have a more general program dealing with understanding teens and basic communications skills.

Scouts go camping to Sylvan Lake

Slingshot-making and canoeing were some of the activities at a weekend campout for members of the Drayton Valley Scout Troop.

A group of boys and leaders travelled to the Sylvan Lake area to take part in their first major outing of the year. They stayed at Camp Woods, a Canadian Boy Scout facility, situated a few miles west of the town.

The program combined a number of recreational activities with the normal tasks associated with outdoor camping.

Nature hikes were a popular activitiy with the Scouts, as well as drills designed to develop leadership qualities.

Boys were blindfolded and then led through an obstacle course solely by the instruction of a guide. If the participants stumbled or touched anything, they were eliminated from the game.

Canoeing was a highlight on Saturday, and boating safety was stressed to the young campers. During another session, they had to make their own slingshots using materials they gathered from around the camp.

At night, campfires and other fun activities took centre stage.

Blood donor clinic set for Friday

By Stuart Adams

The ladies of the Order of the Royal Purple will hold one of two annual blood donor clinics this Friday from 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Hall. Ily Dahl, one of the organizers of the club, said they are hoping for at least 150 donors to contribute one pint each.

A clinic is held every spring and fall. "We've been doing it for about 20 years," she said.

The ladies arrange for the location, coffee and donuts and help the Red Cross to unload and load its equipment. Mrs. Dahl said the Royal Purple also provides local volunteers to supervise the rest beds and take registrations and record donations.

Donors must be between the ages of 18 and 65 and in good health. People 17 years of age may donate, but they must have their parents' authorization.

Mrs. Dahl said if anyone has any concerns about whether or not they would qualify, she could be reached at 542-3216. Examples she gave of restrictions include a history of malaria, diabetes, hypertension and having recently had an operation.

Individuals can donate every three months. However, the Red Cross has to obtain in the neighborhood of 150 pints to make a trip to Drayton Valley worthwhile. Blood obtained here will be taken to Red Cross House in Edmonton where it will be broken down into its various components and redistributed across the province.

To the Electors in the Drayton Valley Constituency

In 1951 I first came out to Alberta from Saskatchewan to work in the oil patch. In 1951, and 1952 I worked in every phase of oil exploration, surveying, shoveling cuttings on siesmic drills, driving water and power trucks, hustling pugs, winching big trucks through bush and swamp, running the instrument truck, loading dynamite, developing records. In the office I wrote up cross sections and helped prepare the final sub-surface maps. I also pushed drill stems as a Derrick man and worked on the deck jumping around cables.

Shortly after the end of World War II, I served in the Royal Canadian Navy in the Pacific and in my youth I "hand bombed" (shovelled coal) as a fireman with the C.N.R.

Over the past 28 years I have been travelling to all parts of the Drayton Valley constituency. Besides being a lawyer, I am a successful businessman.

As everyone knows, other people I relate to and feel at home with are the truck drivers, rig hands, tool pushes, drillers, small farmers, and business people and the young people who find themselves in trouble from time to time.

One thing is certain and that is, when I am elected as the M.L.A. for Drayton Valley Constituency, I will make all of Canada aware of Drayton Valley. I have the desire and the ability to do just that. The W.C.C. made all of Canada aware of Olds - Disbury. Just wait until they hear about Drayton Valley.

Trust fund being used for wrong rainy day

The Heritage Savings Trust Fund was instituted by the Progressive Conservative Government as a 'rainy day fund'.

As the election campaign progresses it appears to be just that—but the rainy day is not economic, it is political.

The previous two elections were fought on federal issues. Ottawa was the target for abuse and the Conservatives wielded the biggest stick. Now, there is no out-of-province election issue and the PC's have to fight on their home ground.

Hence, the rainy day fund.

These are difficult times for Peter Lougheed's government. He must directly confront the opposing parties and cannot deflect the criticisms toward Ottawa.

What he has done is dip into the Heritage Fund to try to throw up a smokescreen.

A recent list from his office lists a series of "financial program commitments" which comes to a total of $160 million. Programs put in place just prior to the election call render this figure almost ludicrous.

Almost $2 billion from the fund will go to the oil and gas industry over the next five years; during the next two years about $1 billion will go towards subsidizing interest rates; as well as the $200 million to be put into a venture capital fund.

On the grain sale to the Soviet Union he rolled out the red carpet for himself. "We now have a long-term grain arrangement as a result of the initiatives of the Progressive Conservatives of Alberta," he said.

It wasn't a red carpet, it was a red herring. "It's perfectly ridiculous for the premier of Alberta to try to take credit for this," was the response of Senator Hazen Argue, the minister responsible for the Wheat Board.

So, here we are in Drayton Valley. Locally it's a three-way race and Conservative candidate Shirley Cripps will probably win.

But let's hope that we see a few more non-PC's in our next Legislative Assembly.

Editor's Notes

The big story in town is Amoco's blowout, but some of the behind the scenes action is interesting as well.

I've been inundated with phone calls from the big city folks asking for on-air interviews, information and pictures.

Amoco's public relations people are also having a good time. One of their biggest problems is dealing with journalists who don't know their way around the oil patch.

The best story behind the story concerns a reporter for an unnamed daily newspaper who called the Calgary office.

"What's happening" is as good a way as any to open the questioning. However, problems arose when the public relations officer mentioned 'oil rig'.

Apparently the poor guy said something along the lines of, "Okay, do you know what the Eiffel Tower looks like?"

Things got worse from there.

The hockey season's started and I've found a hockey buddy. Edith Deby is one of the few knowledgeable fans I've found in town.

We get together Saturday nights and watch the Montreal Canadiens whup whoever they're playing. Not that we're chauvinistic about our team, but we can't figure out why we can't get all the Montreal games and have to put up with those "other teams".

Fortunately the French channel carried last Saturday's drubbing of the Quebec Nordiques.

Now that Roxanne Greenley has become Roxanne Gusek and has given up the crazy hours of this business for a more conventional, married life, I'm worried about 'Scooter' Shanahan.

Ace reporters are hard to come by and not only that, he's my only reporter. What worries me is that he's onto this Sasquatch story.

Given his past luck getting beaned at the hospital 'sod breaking' ceremony, and the time he got creamed by a horse at a rodeo I'm thinking of taking him off the assignment.

Who knows what could happen to him. The only problem is that I'd be the one left to cover it.

Opinions

Perspectives

by Chris Shanahan

There's at least one person in Drayton Valley who is convinced there's a Sasquatch out west of Cynthia.

A lot of people around here have heard the story about the so-called creature, but only one man actually claims he has been in close contact with it.

Nelson Niles was on a trapline about 15 miles west of Cynthia when he had his close encounter. It was a cold winter's night in 1981 when Nelson was working in his cabin deep in the Cynthia bush.

At about 10 p.m., he was inside preparing to flush a couple of beaver carcasses which he had set outside along with a five-gallon plastic water barrel.

All of a sudden, Nelson heard a noise coming from the west, and the next thing he knew, the barrel "thumped" against his cabin as the mysterious intruder sped off into the night.

The fact that the beavers were left untouched convinced Nelson that it couldn't possibly have been a bear.

"It was a Sasquatch in my opinion," he said. "It couldn't have been anything else."

He estimated its weight at 350 pounds, although he put the height at "under six feet."

Although Nelson admitted he didn't get a good look, the incident intrigued him such that the trapper stayed around his cabin the rest of that week.

The only traces of the visit were two "man-sized footprints in the moss." He found the barrel down a hill about 150 feet from the cabin.

When questioned if it might have been a man, Nelson just continued on with his story.

For stretches of up to three hours later in the week, an eerie call rang from the woods.

"It sounded like you were whipping a rope around your head—whooosh, whooosh, whooosh," he explained.

However, when the trapper started his truck, the sound of the engine apparently spooked it, and the strange call wasn't heard again.

Nelson's curiosity wasn't satisfied, and he still hopes to gain some real proof.

Local folklore has it that some Indian trappers were friends with Sasquatch, according to Nelson. There's another tale about an oldtimer named Jacknife who was supposedly cornered against some spruce trees by the monster.

Nelson isn't the only one who's fascinated by this Cynthia legend.

I also plan to investigate it further, and a case of fine Scotch whiskey is waiting for anyone who can produce some concrete evidence of its existence.

A photograph would do the trick.

Your Comment — Who will be the merry pranksters this Hallowe'en?

What do you intend to do for Hallowe'en? (The Western Review would like to thank the Drayton Valley Town council for dressing up in their Hallowe'en costumes for this photo session. As a little prank we thought we would omit any identification of the members and leave it up to our readers to decide who is behind the masks. Represented are: Mayor Bob Mayhew, councillors Bob Booth, Ken Keskinen, Charlie Miner, Howard Olsen, Alex Salfi and Jim Wolff.)

I'm going to watch reruns of Hammy Hamster and the Spiders from Mars on the video.

I'm going to paint all of Sheldon Fuson's fire hydrants purple.

Bug off or I'll screw your head into a light socket.

This is serious business; I'd like to table this question to the next meeting of the committee of the whole.

In the first place I consider that question to be of a personal nature. However, I will respond and say that I've lost my train of thought.

I disagree with the mayor.

I'm going to slide on down to the corner store and pick up some peanut brittle and maybe boogie a bit after.

ARMS WERE TANGLED during amateur boxing action.

DESPITE A BLOODY FACE, Shawn Harris of Drayton Valley fought to victory over Mayerthorpe's Scott Benz in the featured bout of Sunday's amateur boxing card.

Boxers impress

Story and photos by Chris Shanahan

Sunday's amateur boxing card successfully capped off a two-day referee and judges' clinic co-sponsored by the Drayton Valley and Violet Grove clubs.

A total of six officials took part in the clinic held Saturday and Sunday in the gym at Violet Grove.

Mike Brown, Denny Gerow, Bill Johanneson, Chan Duncan, Vaughn Thompson and Tom Turner qualified as amateur boxing referees and judges. They received their Level I certificates under the sanction of the Canadian Amateur Boxing Association (CABA).

Dave Dunbar, head boxing official for Alberta, conducted the session along with assistant Milt Berdhal.

The card held at the Royal Canadian Legion served as a chance for the newly-certified ring officials to work some actual bouts.

The featured bout of the day was a rubber-match between Shawn Harris of Drayton Valley and Mayerthorpe's Scott Benz in 110-pound Junior C. Both boys had each won a close decision in two prior matches.

On Sunday, Harris' aggressive style carried him to victory in a close 3-2 split decision.

In the opening match, Scott McQuaig of Drayton Valley lost a decision to Danny Petrescu of St. Albert in 60-pound non-competitive.

Local newcomer Quinn Powers made an impressive debut in 80-pound Junior A, defeating a Fort Saskatchewan boxer who had two years experience. A rematch has already been set between Powers and Wally Halter in Fort Saskatchewan on Nov. 6.

Lyle Platz of Drayton Valley and Derek Pequin of Violet Grove both showed good style, considering it was their first fight. Platz took a split decision in the 95-pound Junior A contest.

Drayton Valley's Colin Reich dropped a narrow decision in two-year veteran Clayton McNary of Fort. Saskatchewan at 95-pound Junior B. It was Reich's first competitive match.

In another 95-pound Junior B bout, Jack Cussimonio of Fort Saskatchewan decisioned Leavel Beesley of St. Albert.

After a brief intermission, the exciting action resumed with Dwayne Barth of the Drayton Valley club defeating St. Albert's Raymond Haggins in a 60-pound Junior A match.

In what Drayton Valley boxing coach Tom Turner described as "one of the best bouts on the card," Scott Thompson of Violet Grove was awarded a split decision over Donald Duncan of Mayerthorpe.

Thompson took a standing eight count in the first round, but fought back to capture the win in the entertaining 125-pound Junior C fights.

In another bout between two ring newcomers, Don Platz of Drayton Valley won a decision over St. Albert's Rick McDicken.

Platz displayed a straight left which eventually won him the 125-pound Junior C event.

Brewers defend flag title

By Chris Shanahan

Brewers successfully defended their Pembina Flag Football League (PFFL) championship on Sunday with a close 16-8 victory over Crude.

Crude were awarded the Woodland Chrysler Cup, emblematic of supremacy in the local flag loop. It was their fourth title in a row.

PFFL spokesman Bruce Clemmer said he felt Crude had "used up all their bombs" in an earlier semi-final contest.

In the third semi-final played Sunday morning, Crude quarterback Ron Barker used the long pass to perfection en route to a 35-18 demolition of Saints.

Saints couldn't handle Crude's aerial onslaught, and it cost them a place in the final.

Brewers blanked Panthers 34-0 in the other semi-final, although the game was close at first. Brewers started slowly in the opening half, and it wasn't until the second half that they finally caught fire.

The final featured exciting action, and Crude were still in it right up to the last play. However, the Brewer defence held on for the victory.

Ron Bartek was the pivot for the PFFL champions.

Brewer offensive star Brad Turnbull was voted most valuable player in the final.

Prospects bright for senior Flyers

By Chris Shanahan

Early season prospects are looking bright for the local senior men's hockey club.

Over 30 players are trying out for Drayton Valley Flyers, and co-coach Rick Lapointe is confident that a number of new faces will bolster the roster for the 1982-83 season.

"There's a good bunch of new guys. We're really pleased with their showing" Mr. Lapointe said. "I think it's one of the most competitive camps we've ever had in the Flyer organization."

Flyers play their first exhibition game tonight (Oct. 27) against Bashaw Raiders. Game time is 8:30 p.m. in the Centennial Civic Centre.

Mr. Lapointe will be sharing the coaching duties with Frank Nash. Lynden Heron is team president and George Bergquist is handling secretary-treasurer duties.

The additions to the line-up should provide "more consistency and depth than last season," according to coach Lapointe. He feels the rookies have pushed the veterans to play better, and hopefully this will carry over into the regular season.

Indicative of the competitive camp is the fact that five goaltenders are trying out: a first for the team, he added.

TED BELLINGER OF Saints unloads a pass during Sunday's semi-final against Crude. It wasn't Saints's day, and Crude and Brewers met for the Pembina Flag Football League championship. Brewers won 16-8.

TOWN OF DRAYTON VALLEY

INTENTION TO CONSTRUCT A LOCAL IMPROVEMENT

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 157 of the Municipal Taxation Act, R.S.A., 1980, Public Notice is hereby given that the Council of the Town of Drayton Valley intends to undertake the construction of a standard concrete sidewalk as a local improvement. The estimated cost of the aforementioned local improvement is $11,370.00 repayable over a period of ten years at a rate of interest not exceeding fifteen and one-quarter per centum (15¼%) per annum and to charge the lands abutting that portion of the street or place wherein the local improvement is made at a uniform rate of $4.76 per front foot of frontage, over the said period of ten years.

All costs in excess of the aforementioned special assessment will be borne by the Town of Drayton Valley at large.

The location of the proposed local improvement is as follows:
(a) 50th Street Lot R Block 50 East Side 428 ft.
(b) 56th Avenue Lot R Block 50 North Side 52 ft.

Notice is further given that unless the majority of the owners of the lands that may be assessed therefore, representing at least one-half in value thereof as aforesaid, petition the Council against it within two weeks after the last publication of the Notice, the local improvement may be undertaken and the cost thereof assessed by the system of assessment referred to in this Notice.

If no petition sufficiently signed has, within the time limit in that behalf, been presented to the Council against the local improvement or assessment aforementioned, the Council may undertake the proposed local improvement at any time within three years of the giving of this Notice.

Date of the last publication of this Notice will be the 3rd day of November, 1982.

Dated at the Town of Drayton Valley this 22nd day of October, 1982.

Juniors blast Hinton 15-5

By Stuart Adams

The Brandette Blades Junior 'B' began their 1982-83 season with a 15-5 exhibition win over visiting Hinton Cardinals last Friday.

Drayton Valley was led by a four-goal performance by Nels Fredberg and hattricks by Chad Allen and Conniey Dunham.

Penalties played an important role in the match with Brandettes taking 12 and Cardinals 18. One of the better goals of the game came with Brandettes short-handed.

Ken Baird rushed the puck along the right boards into Cardinals' zone before passing to Greg Tucker behind the net. Fredberg scored the second of his goals from the slot after Tucker set him up with a perfect pass.

Hinton's main problem seemed to be backchecking. They were consistently unable to clear the puck from their own end.

Cardinals' coach Jim Parker said after the game Drayton Valley will do well in the Central Alberta Junior 'B' League. "They've got three or four guys with lots of experience."

Brandette manager Ernie Stables was pleased with his team's showing for the first time out. "We've had a lot of practice and the boys have been looking forward to this game."

Parker wasn't disappointed with his team's efforts. He said he wasn't making excuses, but he left six of his best players at home because they were working shift work.

Field of six set for rec. hockey

Another team has been added to the men's recreational hockey league to bring the field to six for the 1982-83 campaign.

All the clubs have not yet been given names, but league spokesman Ian Ross said things will become more organized within the next week.

Player registration has been set at $115 per player, with a payment deadline of Nov. 1.

New players are still welcome in the non-contact league, but Mr. Ross said rosters are filling fast. They hope to have at least 16 registered skaters on each squad.

In rec action on Oct. 24, Green defeated Red 4-2, Black hammered Dome 10-2, and White edged Amoco 11-10.

Game times are Sundays at 10 a.m., 9 p.m., and 10:30 p.m., Tuesdays at 10:15 p.m.; and Wednesdays at 9 p.m. in Evansburg.

Growing Together

New Frontiers

The NDP is committed to Alberta farmers. That's a commitment we take seriously because agriculture is vital to Alberta's future. As part of that commitment the NDP will institute a New Frontiers Program to open up five million acres of new agricultural land throughout the province. We will work with farmers to develop a workable Farm Income Stabilization Plan.

Mainstreet Alberta

The Alberta NDP will work together with local governments and business people to revitalize and renovate Alberta's smaller cities and rural towns. Mainstreet Alberta will make your town an even better place to live, shop, do business and raise a family.

A New North

The NDP will work with Northerners to develop the North the Conservatives have forgotten. We will complete northern rail links from the Peace Block to the West Coast. Working together, we can build a new North and make Alberta work for you.

Midgets win one, lose two in exhibitions

Drayton Valley's Midget hockey team prepared for their league schedule by playing three exhibition games over the past two weekends.

They had a 6-3 loss to Edson, a 10-3 defeat at the hands of Hinton, and an 8-7 win over Rocky Mountain House.

Scoring for the local club were: Trey Kelly, six goals; Walt Evenson, four; Kevin Hutchinson, three; Keith Bills, three; Dave Kennedy, two; and Glen Wilneff, one.

The club has shown improvement in each game and the coaching staff is confident they should be a tough contender in the North Central Midget League.

The league schedule begins this weekend when Drayton Valley travels to Rocky Mountain House for a game Oct. 30.

They return home on Oct. 31 for a game with Olds at 4:45 p.m. in the Centennial Civic Centre.

Fans are urged to come out and support their local Midget team.

Court news

Kicker charged

Wanda Luc of Drayton Valley will appear in provincial court on Nov. 25 on a charge of wilful damage. The charge stems from a report by Tim Taylor of Winfield on Oct. 10. Mr. Taylor claimed that while driving through the parking lot of the Westwind Motor Inn, his vehicle was damaged when repeatedly kicked by a woman.

Jeffery Schadeck of Rocky Rapids received 21 days in jail on a charge of misleading a police officer. The conviction came about as a result of Mr. Schadeck reporting his vehicle stolen, when in fact it wasn't, RCMP Corporal Tom Turner explained.

A charge of driving while impaired netted Brian Bohning of Drayton Valley a $600 fine and a six-month licence suspension.

Skaters attend coaches' clinic

Five senior skaters from the Drayton Valley Figure Skating Club attended the amateur coaches' clinic held in Barrhead on Oct. 16.

After on-ice and classroom instruction, the skaters were required to write a test which would qualify them to teach and test the National Skating Test (NST) program.

Tracy Kallis, Laurel Pfannmuller, Paula Anderson, Shauna Rinke and Connie Solomon were successful in receiving their amateur coaches' certificates.

They are now assisting the club's professionals in teaching over 100 skaters registered in the NST.

Congratulations, girls, and thanks for your time and talents!

Young boxers impress at local amateur card

Violet Grove's Todd Pequin took a standing eight count in the first round against Gerry Johnston of St. Albert, but came back to make it close.

Pequin was hit by another hard blow later in the round, before his corner retired the side in the 165-pound intermediate match.

In a hard-hitting 147-pound intermediate contest, Mayerthorpe's Curtis Duncan was overpowered by a more experienced Shawn Greeny of St. Albert. The referee stopped the fight in the third round.

Coach Turner said he was pleased with the performance of all the young boxers.

"This was a very green card. The majority of the boxers have only been in training for a month to six weeks," he commented. "Considering how inexperienced they were, the matches were relatively close."

There were over 150 fans on hand for the card.

Mr. Turner sent special thanks to Scott and Vaughn Thompson for their work sparring during the instructional part of the clinic. He also thanked the Violet Grove Boxing Club for the use of their facilities over the weekend.

Coaches and boxers appreciate the work of ring-side doctor, Guy Lamoreaux, who also administered medicals to all the competitors.

Young rider on the move in rodeo circuits

By Chris Shanahan

Kerry Mykituk of Drayton Valley captured the bull riding event at the Lakeland Rodeo Association finals held in Camrose on Oct. 22, 23 and 24.

The 17-year-old rider took the championship with an 80-point ride on Sunday aboard one of the top bulls in Canada. He stayed on General Lee of the Franklin Rodeo Stock for the excellent mark.

Kerry placed fourth in Friday's round with a ride of 64, and he won Saturday's draw with a score of 72. Sunday's ride was enough to secure the overall title.

He won a trophy, saddle and buckle for his efforts.

Kerry is moving on to the Foothills Cowboy Association rodeo in Calgary this week. It starts today (Oct. 27) and runs through to Saturday (Oct. 30).

Riding competitively for about 2½ years, the Drayton Valley cowboy has taken part in a number of local rodeo events.

After completing his schooling at NAIT in February of 1983, Kerry plans to become a full-time rider on the Canadian Professional Cowboy Association, competing against the country's top bull riders.

for Alberta!

A proud record of positive action... for rural Alberta and other major accomplishments

Best health care in Canada

- major commitment to medical research through the Heritage Fund, with emphasis on cancer and heart disease research
- funds for operating our health care system doubled since 1979
- since 1974, hospitals built, expanded or renovated in 22 communities; projects in the planning or construction stage in a total of 60 communities
- major new health facilities supported by the Heritage Fund including the Walter C. MacKenzie Sciences Centre, the Alberta Children's Provincial General Hospital, and the Southern Alberta Cancer Centre
- two new schools of nursing set up in Fort McMurray and Grande Prairie
- a total commitment of almost $600 million in total for health care facilities and research from the Heritage Fund

Protecting our rights as Albertans

- Alberta was the first province to introduce its own Bill of Rights which takes precedence over all other laws. The Bill of Rights was passed by the Legislative Assembly in 1971.
- Section 1 of the Alberta Bill of Rights expressly recognizes, "The right of the individual to liberty, security of the person and enjoyment of property, and the right not to be deprived thereof except by due process of law."
- A new constitution for Canada was signed on April 17, 1982, and includes the Alberta Amending Formula to ensure all provinces are treated equally.
- Section 38 of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms in the new constitution protects the continuation of existing rights and freedoms — such rights as our enjoyment of property are fully protected.
- The new constitution of Canada reaffirms our provincial ownership of natural resources.

Encouraging small business

- up to 6% interest shielding for two years on loans up to $150,000, bringing the effective interest rate to 14.5% for small businesses
- over 50% cut in Alberta Small Business Corporate Tax rate since 1979 — to almost half the average Canadian rate
- $6,000 business licenses no longer required
- Alberta Opportunity Company providing loans to numerous small businesses not able to obtain financing from other sources
- small business tax waiver will exempt businesses from monthly instalment payments of corporate tax

Improved services for rural Albertans

A great deal has been done to assure that rural Albertans have the same access to services as those in large centres:

- 7,106 miles of primary and secondary roads paved since 1971 — leader in Canada
- water and sewer needs in small towns and villages now met by extensive provincial programs of assistance
- small hospitals maintained and upgraded
- 3,500 mostly rural students each year helped to attend post-secondary institutions through the Educational Opportunities Equalization Grant
- a major new initiative to bring post-secondary education to local regions
- special grants for small schools, small school jurisdictions and schools with declining enrollments to keep those schools open
- a new program encouraging community use of facilities in 50 schools during evenings and weekends
- 63 airstrips and 14 air terminals built since 1979 in towns such as Lloydminster, Wetaskiwin, Viking, Vulcan and Mayerthorpe. The government will continue to help improve access to rural areas.
- The Remote Area Heating Allowance benefits thousands of Albertans by providing a 30% rebate to people without access to natural gas.
- The Rural Gas Program has helped bring natural gas to thousands of homes.

Recognizing our senior citizens

Working as partners with private agencies and volunteers, we are pledged to continue serving our senior citizens through programs which recognize their past and present service to our province.

- on October 12, Progressive Conservative pledges of new programs for home repair grants up to $3,000, increased property tax reduction benefits and increased renter's assistance grants
- The Pioneer Repair Program has helped 40,000 people since 1979 with grants of up to $2,000 for home maintenance and repairs for seniors wanting to stay in their homes.
- the most extensive health care coverage in Canada through programs supplying eyeglasses, dentures, health aids, surgical aids and medical equipment at minimal cost or free
- no hospital admission charges; no health care or Alberta Blue Cross premiums
- highest provincial income supplements in Canada.
- since 1971, an unparalleled record of construction of senior citizen housing units
- Thousands of people have benefitted from the increased Renter's Assistance Grant of up to $1,000 in private accommodation and up to $500 in seniors' apartments or lodge units.
- The Home Adaptation Program provides grants of up to $1,000 to landlords, tenants or homeowners making renovations for wheelchairs.

Building our agriculture industry

- Alberta agriculture the fastest growing in Canada
- On October 19 Premier Lougheed announced proposed revisions to the Natural Gas Price Protection Plan would result in an additional rebate of 52.7¢ per thousand cubic feet for natural gas consumers in primary agricultural production.
- up to 6% interest shielding on farmers' loans, effectively reducing interest to 14½ %
- lowest farm fuel costs in Canada, especially with the farm fuel allowance being nearly tripled this year
- over 88,000 reduced-interest loans and loan guarantees totalling over $1 billion made to farmers since 1971
- financing of Prince Rupert Terminal to improve capacity to ship our grain to export markets
- 1,000 hopper cars bought by the Heritage Fund now moving grain to market
- encouraging food processing through financial help to food product businesses
- help to beginning farmers with 2800 low-interest loans since 1980
- beef cattle, sheep and hog support programs providing stability to producers

For our students

- a new emphasis on thorough, basic education; province-wide exams test basic skills in grades 3, 6, 9 and 12
- Alberta and Canadian history and geography featured in a new social studies curriculum
- instead of closing schools, several new programs tackling the special problems of local schools
- thousands of post-secondary students to receive awards from the Heritage Scholarship Fund
- new program to bring advanced educational opportunities to rural regions
- tuition fees at Alberta universities among the lowest in Canada
- special equalization grants help mostly rural students pay their expenses during post-secondary education

Strengthening the energy sector

- industry and others forecasting a significant upsurge in oil and gas activities in the months ahead
- reducing royalties through the Alberta Oil and Gas Activity Plan spurred exploration — and hence industry activity
- expanded markets of natural gas into the United States the key — cooperation with the industry to develop new initiatives
- elimination of the natural gas export tax and provision of much better prices for our existing products through the Energy Agreement of last year
- The Energy Agreement resulted in significant benefits to Albertans over the proposed National Energy Program.
- Well Servicing Development and Drilling Incentive Plan spurring activity for the servicing and drilling segments of the industry
- employment in the energy sector in Alberta increased steadily since July

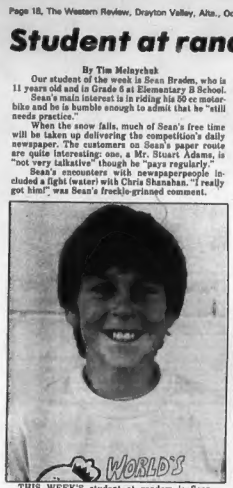
By Tim Melnychuk

Our student of the week is Sean Braden, who is 11 years old and in Grade 6 at Elementary B School.

Sean's main interest is in riding his 50 cc motorbike and he is humble enough to admit that he "still needs practice."

When the snow falls, much of Sean's free time will be taken up delivering the competition's daily newspaper. The customers on Sean's paper route are quite interesting: one, a Mr. Stuart Adams, is "not very talkative" though he "pays regularly."

Sean's encounters with newspapperpeople included a fight (water) with Chris Shanahan. "I really got him!", was Sean's freckle-grinned comment.



THIS WEEK'S student at random is Sean Braden. He's in Grade 5 at the Elementary B School. (Photo by Stuart Adams)

Though nearing Hallowe'en, Sean has not yet devised any elaborate festivities. "I'll just do the ordinary things," he explained, "and maybe I'll wear an old man costume."

But Sean cracked under intense questioning and revealed that he has been known to stuff potatoes into mufflers.

So, if you see a little old man inspecting the exhaust system of your car ...

Sean's major pastime at present is school. And he likes it! Sean feels that he "is pretty good in math" but the prime catalysts for his enthusiasm appear to be the "interesting ideas" of his teacher Mr. Vickers.

Evidently Mr. Vickers occasionally brings to class an invisible friend, "Greg," with whom he converses animatedly.

Hmm.

At home Sean has a 2½-year-old brother and a 16-year-old sister. Sean admitted that his little brother tries his patience, but that's just normal too.

When talking about his sister, Sean actually wondered out loud at the number of boyfriends she accumulated. He unblushingly allowed that his sister is "athletic and pretty," maybe to save his skin.

Sean considers himself to be somewhat athletic, with soccer as his favorite sport. In picking a favorite team, Sean courageously named the Toronto Argonauts "because they are a good, coordinated team."

Sean's favorite people include two friends, David and Curtis. They ride motorbikes together and "do normal things that kids do."

Sean restores our faith in the youth of our community. Would you buy a newspaper from him?

Sure. But no potatoes please!

Drayton Valley recreation notes

Levelling work has begun at the site of the new baseball diamonds planned for West Valley Park.

Town facilities foreman Calvin Bennefield said heavy equipment was in for a couple of days last week and clear grading is well under way.

Tom Mellore of the Evergreen Fastball League and Herman Wiebe of Drayton Valley Roggers are organizing the project, while the recreation department is supervising the progress, Mr. Bennefield explained.

Representatives from a number of local ball teams are attempting to get as much work done before the winter weather sets in.

Some of the major construction such as the installation of a drainage system will be the first priority in the spring.

Work is expected to begin soon at the outdoor skating rink situated near H.W. Pickup Junior High School. Mr. Bennefield said boards and other rink facilities will be shifted east of the original site.

The concession at the Centennial Civic Centre is now open, and it will serve fans during most major hockey games and other arena activities. Walter and Mary Evenson of Drayton Valley submitted the winning tender.

Public skating passes are now available from the Town office. They're good for all public ice time, including noon hour skating. Cost of the passes are family, $50; adult, $30; student, $25, aged 12 and under, $15; pre-schoolers, $10.

Flyers get ready

Roster cuts will be made after tonight's game, and Mr. Lapointe expects there will be a "fifty-fifty split between first year skaters and veterans. They plan to get down to 21 players.

Flyers belong to the six team Central Alberta Hockey League (CAHL) along with Bentley, Alix, Sylvan Lake, Rocky Mountain House and Lacombe.

They'll play a 25 game regular schedule, with the opener set for Nov. 3. Flyer home games will be Wednesdays and every second Saturday at the Centennial Civic Centre.

The Seniors will again be completely community sponsored with the majority of operating revenue coming from the sale of advertising in their hockey program.

Mr. Lapointe said community support has been very good, and the Flyer organization would like to thank all area members for their sponsorship.

Special attractions at home contests will include a Scoro contest for children aged 12 and under, as well as draws for $50 gift certificates.

Lamplighters lace blades for new season

By Chris Shanahan

Drayton Valley's Lamplighters have hit the ice for another season of oldtimers hockey.

They dropped a 4-2 decision on Oct. 21 to an underage Warburg Grizzlies club in an exhibition contest played at the Centennial Civic Centre.

Dan Hanson and Dan Richer bagged the markers for Drayton Valley in the losing cause.

The local oldtimer squad, made up of players aged 35 and over, will play at home on Oct. 28 versus Devon, and then on Oct. 31 in Whitecourt.

Drayton Valley will again be a member of the Central Alberta Oldtimers' Hockey League, along with clubs from Wetaskiwin, Camrose, Ponoka and Red Deer, according to Lamplighter spokesman Don DeGeer. Teams will play a partially interlocking schedule during the 1982-83 campaign.

Mr. DeGeer said it's hoped a league involving oldtimer teams from towns closer to Drayton Valley can eventually be formed.

"We're still in the process of finalizing plans for a local oldtimer league," he commented.

Lamplighters have several newcomers on the roster this season, and Mr. DeGeer feels there's the potential to have one of the best squads ever.

"The team is still in a reorganizational stage. We're fitting the new players in and making them compatible with the veterans," Mr. DeGeer explained.

NATIONAL FIGURE SKATING Week activities are in full swing.

It's a big week for skaters

It's National Figure Skating Week (Oct. 25 to 30) and here in Drayton Valley the local club is planning a number of activities.

Events this week included a continuous slide presentation and freestyle demonstration on Monday. A skate-a-thon for club members is set for Friday and a bake sale will go Saturday at the Derrick Mall.

The Canadian Figure Skating Association (CFSA) comprises three elements: figures, freestyle and dance.

Figures are commonly referred to as "patch" by the skaters. This is where they learn how to make a figure eight, including forward, backward, inside edge and outside edge.

As they progress from the preliminary figure onward, skaters must perform various combinations with an increased level of difficulty.

Freestyle is the type of skating the public sees most on television. At each level, skaters are required to perform certain jumps and footwork to music. The length of the solo performance increases from one minute for preliminary to five minutes for higher tests.

In dance the athlete is given a pattern of steps which must be performed with a partner to specified music.

The purpose of national figure skating is to develop an awareness of the activity as a recreation; as a discipline; as a sport; and to provide access to the public.

National Skating Tests entail teaching skills in group lessons. At present, teaching at the local club is handled by professional coaches Lorna Muth and Debbie-Joy Hogan.

Amateur coaches are: Paula Anderson, Whitney Barker, Carolyn Eckert, Robin Regenwetter, Tammy Regenwetter, Connie Solomon, Tracy Kalla, Doug Pankewicz, Laurel Plannmueller and Shauna Riske

TIME FOR A rest

MAYOR BOB MAYHEW was on hand for the official opening of National Figure Skating Week.

Tiny hamlet flooded by media types

Lodgepole Recreation Association president John Hartt resigned his position last Wednesday evening at a sparsely attended meeting

Only 13 people turned up for the meeting, slated for Oct. 20, where John Hartt announced his resignation

Citing local apathy towards community self help projects, such as the Scout Hut renovations and preparations of the ice rink for the winter, Mr. Hartt stated his reasons for resigning his post

John Hartt also said that poor attendance at other functions such as the gym night at the school and the film nights also contributed to his decision.

Meanwhile, arrangements were made to barry on with the Scout Hut renovations so that the County of Parkland grant would not have to be given back.

The next meeting is slated for Nov. 18 at 8 p.m. in the school. Hopefully with the well blowout out of the way by then the attendance will be a little better

The tiny hamlet of Lodgepole was inundated this past week with newspaper, television and radio reporters. The phone at the store has been ringing non-stop with correspondents from the Edmonton radio and television stations, Calgary Herald reporters and magazine editors.

With the advent of this season's attraction, the population of Lodgepole has increased and declined at the same time. As reported by other media, approximately 30 people have moved from their homes to Drayton Valley where they are being housed courtesy of Amoco Canada Ltd. The increase is being caused by specialists, police and the aforementioned media

As of this time a three square kilometre zone has been placed around the wellsite This zone is be

Friday morning saw the first of the hardy hunters return to the area

Except for the first two days of the emergency, there has not been too great an odor in the hamlet area. Most of the fumes are being blown northeast and north toward Edmonton and Edson

Koch and Raymond are united in marriage

Andrew Zurawell, formerly of Breton, and now of Cloverleaf Manor, passed away and his funeral was in Edmonton on Oct. 15

Buster Owens has gone to the Provost, Coronation and Brownfield area to visit

Helen Gellert, staff member of the Manor, underwent major surgery in an Edmonton hospital, and her place was taken by Veronica Hakstol.

The Warburg Curling Club has cancelled its mixed bonspiel for Nov. 1 to 7

The Red Barn feature will be televised on Oct. 31 at 9 a.m.

Kendra Elaine Koch and Jerry Samuel Raymond were united in marriage on Sept. 25 in the Nanton United Church at 4 p.m. Reverend Dwight Powell officiated.

Kendra is the only daughter of Pam and Ernie Koch of Westbank, B.C., and Jerry is the youngest son of Rudy and Vangie Raymond of Warburg

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the music played by organist Doras Lorec.

The bride wore a sleeveless dress featuring a scoop neckline with a shoulder flounce creating a cape-like effect. The empire waist shirt and train were trimmed with a soft lace applique which matched that of the shoulder flounce. Her hair was done in two French braids with a halo of baby's breath with a pink rose and tiger lily at the back.

Wanda Dwelle of Nanton, a long time friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Barb Koch, sister in law of the bride, and Laura Lee Raymond, sister of the groom. They wore floor length peach flora. sat dresses with white jackets They all wore daisies in their hair and carried bouquets of peach roses, yellow carnations, lily of the valley and baby's breath

The flower girl, Jennifer McGregor, cousin of the groom, wore a peach sun dress with matching jacket. She carried a basket of flowers matching those of the bridesmaids.

The groom was attired in a light tan tuxedo with brown trim. He chose to wear a bola tie and riding boots. His boutonniere was a yellow carnation.

Guests were ushered into the church by Terry Raymond, brother of the groom, and Jim Koch, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the couple had a surprise horse drawn carriage ride from Harry Dwelle before going for pictures, which were taken out doors at the Nanton Golf Course by the bride's brother, Howard Koch.

Joe Hudson of Edmonton acted as master of ceremonies for the evening. Harry Dwelle of Nanton, a long time friend of the bride, gave the toast to the bride. Fred Howard, grandfather of the bride from Kelowna, was introduced as a special guest.

Following a honeymoon of camping in Banff and Jasper, the couple will make their home in Edmonton where both are employed.

Whitby dance coming

By Evelyn Howatt
542-2080

It has been very pleasant to have above freezing weather again after the snowfall of approximately five inches in our area. The snow gave everyone a sense of urgency to get everything put away and the rest of the gardens brought in before winter.

It is good to see Lila Joel home again and we wish her a quick and speedy recovery.

Don't forget the masquerade dance and supper Oct. 30. The tickets are going fast so pick yours up early at Ben's Mazda, Len's Plumbing and Heating at 542-2514, Kelly's Pump Service or from a community member.

Ella and Earl Kelly have now returned from a short holiday in B.C

Resident of more than 50 years passes away

Marshall Walter Forchuk passed away at his home in Edmonton, Alta., on Oct. 10 at the age of 54 years, after a terminal illness

Marshall was born in Edmonton on May 26, 1928 and came to Alder Flats with his parents in the same year at the age of six months

He was united in marriage to Helena Hoshowski in 1950 and they were blessed with five children – Greg, Vicky, Kathy, Laurie and Kevin.

In 1951, Marshall started work in the oilfields, and worked for Commonwealth and Cwerade Drilling for many years until they decided to leave and sell their farm, located near Alder Flats and purchase a general store at Elk Point, Alta., in 1964.

A few years later they sold this business and purchased a motel at Nisku. In 1968 they moved to Leduc and Marshall went into oilfield business for himself as a freelance cementman and was active in this until 1978. The past three years he was employed in maintenance at the University Hospital

Marshall is survived by his five children and spouses, Greg and Joyce of Devon, Vicky and Mark Levers of Leduc, Kathy and Allan Schneider of Leduc, Laurie of Edmonton and Kevin of Leduc.

Prayer services were held at Harnstock & Son Funeral Chapel in Edmonton on Oct. 13.

Funeral services were held at St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church at Buck Lake on Oct. 14 with Rev. Joseph Douchet officiating. Agnes Schauerte was the organist. Interment took place in the Alder Flats cemetery.

Lunch was served by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary at the Legion Hall following interment.

Sympathy is extended to the family from their former community.

Congratulations to Ed and Laura Haggart on the birth of a daughter on Oct. 15 at the Drayton Valley Hospital. Amanda Dawn weighed seven pounds, 10 ounces, and is a granddaughter for two sets of grandparents – John and Helen Haggart of Alder Flats and Theo and VJ Westling of Breton. Congratulations on the happy event!

Congratulations also to the newlyweds, Duane and Brenda Hoflin.

Brenda Smith of Delburne was here on the holiday weekend visiting some of her former students, and stayed at the Thompson home

WESTERN CANADA CONCEPT

1. Renegotiate all Federal Provincial Energy agreements and place complete control of the oil and gas industry in Alberta in the hands of Albertan's.
2. Eliminate capital gains tax.
3. Introduce legislation in the Provincial Legislature requiring all truckers and welders to be paid within 35 days of invoicing. I pledge my full support to the trucking industry.
4. Take steps to encourage Time Air to supply service to Drayton Valley
5. Improve Drayton Valley airport facilities
6. Join with other Provincial Governments to bring pressure on the Federal Government to eliminate the Foreign Investment Review Agency. We require massive investment in Alberta in order to reverse the tide of recession and unemployment. All barriers, whether municipal, provincial or federal, should be removed in order to permit the free flow of investment capital into Alberta.
7. Create community pastures for the Drayton Valley district.
8. Allow farmers to obtain the highest price for their beef and free the industry from restrictive controls.
9. Establish a Technical School in Drayton Valley (forestry, oil and gas, exploration, animal husbandry)
10. Assist the oil and gas industry in providing safer working conditions for all personnel.
11. The farmers of this province have never received fair and substantial compensation for surface rights. As soon as I am elected I intend to remedy the situation forthwith.
12. When elected to the legislature I have no intention of sitting on a number of useless committees, smiling at Peter Lougheed.

Toxic herbs used in witchcraft

Hallowe'en type witches have been around a long time, and herbs have an important role in witchcraft.

Many of the herbs used by witches are either highly toxic, or highly narcotic in effect. Wolf's bane, hellebore, belladonna, aconite hen bane, vervain, mistletoe and pulsatile are among the herbs used by witches in their ointments and potions.

Wolf's bane, more commonly known as monk's hood, and a native Alberta plant, has highly toxic roots. Mark Anthony's soldiers are reputed to have been driven mad after eating the roots. Wolf's bane was given as a gift by Hecate, the chief witch. Hecate was a three-fold witch, including Luna, the moon, Diana on earth, and Prosepine who ruled the underworld. Diana had power over ghosts, night tombs, dogs, blood and terror. She was also goddess of crossroads, so offerings of food were left out at crossroads to feed the legion of ghosts who followed her.

Hellebore contains poisonous alkaloids and is extremely narcotic in effect. An overdose can be fatal.

Henbane is totally poisonous except for the flowers. It contains the poison hyoscyanin, which is strongly hypnotic.

Poison hemlock was used to kill Socrates. Both the leaves and the seeds contain a highly poisonous alkaloid, conine, which produces paralysis and then death.

Early witches often rode to their meetings on animals, preferably he-goats or black rams, or even horses. Some used a flying potion or an ointment to make themselves invisible to arrive unseen.

A typical flying potion contained aconite, belladonna, hellebore root, hemlock, baby's fat, soot, and bat's blood to give it flying powers.

It is believed that the strongly narcotic effect of the potion may have led to strong hallucinations so that the witch actually believed herself flying.

Silver anniversary for Tomakawk couple

By Evelyn Lukaniuk
339-3957

Congratulation to Ann, nee Ritter, and Henry Pischke, who celebrated their 25th anniversary on Oct. 9. They were married at Mellowdale 25 years ago by Rev. Raduenz. Bridesmaids were Ella, Henry's sister, Ruth Ruf and Trudy (Raduenz) Devreis. Best men were Eric Pischke, Henry's brother, and Gus and John Ritter, Anne's brothers.

After their marriage they settled on a farm south of Tomahawk where they raised four sons: Kenneth, Leonard, Ronald and Irvin. Their family has grown lately as Ken married Hilary and Leonard married Sylvia, bringing daughters to the family.

On Oct. 9 the children of Henry and Ann made an open house anniversary party in the Tomahawk club room with the help of aunt Joyce. Several friends, relatives and neighbors attended the open house, wishing the anniversary couple best wishes.

Trudy, Eric and John were the only attendants present. Rev. and Mrs. Raduenz were also present, coming all the way from Kelowna, B.C. Thanks from the family to Joyce Pischke who made and decorated the special cake and to Dr. and Mrs. St. Claire for the flowers.

Henry and Ann are still living on the same farm and have been very active in the Lutheran Church. Henry served on the church board from time to time over the years and has been Sunday school superintendent and teacher for about 20 years and has also served on the club board. Ann has also taught Sunday school for almost 10 years. We wish them many more happy married years.

Get well wishes to Walter Case who was taken to the Drayton Valley Hospital Oct. 9. Hopefully he'll be home soon.

Ladies' volleyball is every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. and judo is on Wednesday nights from 7 to 9 p.m. There will be a whist drive on Oct. 29 and the Hallowe'en masquerade dance is on Oct. 30 with music by Music Country.

Stitchrippers hold first meeting

Our first meeting was at the Provincial Building. We had our elections. Laurel Plann muller is our president. Keri Segers is our vice-president, Tracy Hook is our secretary, and Lise Bolderson is treasurer. We are proud of them all.

We go to 4-H every other Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. On Sept. 23 we hit the work. Level 1 made a felt pencil holder. Level 2 is learning crochet. Level 3 is learning knitting. Now level 1 is learning embroidery.

A workshop is planned for Oct. 30 at the Provincial Building. This workshop is planned because we will have a Christmas craft table at the bazaar. This bazaar is going to be held at the Rec Plex on Nov. 20.

The Stitchrippers are having their own Christmas party in the home ec room in the high school on Dec. 2.

Large crowd at open house

By Lil Bailey
731-2261

A large crowd attended the open house held at the new hamlet of Keephills, when the new hall and school were officially opened. After the ceremonies were over, a smorg lunch was served and the school children gave tours of their new school.

On Oct. 16 a turkey supper and dance was held in the new Keephills Hall; a large crowd attended both. Visitors at the Bailey home on the weekend were Garry and Gloria Horton and daughter Bonnie from Smith and Peter LeGrand from Edmonton. They all attended the supper and dance.

After such a nice warm week, it was hard to cope with all the snow we received over the weekend and much of it is still with us.

On Thanksgiving weekend, Jim Bailey and Reg. Don and Ken Mitchell and Leonard Engelhardt and Jason went hunting north of Peers. Jason had the luck this time and brought down a moose.

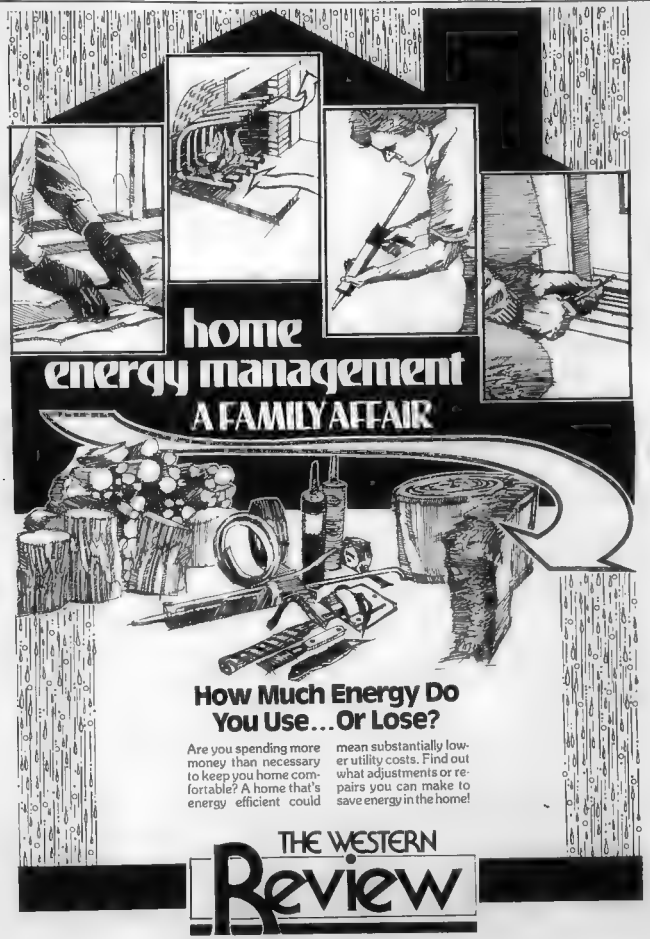
Little Keri Dixon of Onoway, Myrna and Leonard Engelhardt's granddaughter, fell out of her top bunk and broke her wrist.

It was nice to see so many former Keephills and district residents at the turkey supper last week. To name a few: Olga Stretton, Josie Sample (nee Dumouceill), Peter LeGrand, Bert and Betty Bryant, Susan and Barry Bryant, Wolfe and Joyce Schwalbe and many others.

We have been plagued with the rotten egg odor from the sour well near Lodgepole. It is supposed to be capped soon.

Keep Canada Beautiful

Managing Alberta's Energy



Give your home an energy tune-up and save

Many car owners know that they must have their vehicle checked and tuned up for efficient, trouble-free winter driving. Unfortunately not as many people realize that their homes also require a "winter tune up."

Just as the wise car owner has his vehicle winterized before the snow flies, you should winterize your home before winter puts its icy grip on your power bill.

Block Heat Escape Routes

The ceilings and walls are two areas through which heat can escape from your home, so start your winter tune-up by checking them for insulation and air tightness.

Attic insulation should be at least a RSI value of 3.5 (R20) ideally RSI 7 (R40). While inspecting the attic, check the air vents and ensure that they are open and working properly.

When checking the insulation levels in the walls, drill a small hole from the inside in an unobstructive spot, and insert a thin wire to search inside the wall. If there's no insulation cellulose or glass fibre, insulation can be blown into the cavities. As nearly 20 per cent of the heat loss from the average home escapes from the basement, the basement walls should be insulated as well.

While checking the walls, look for holes or openings into outside walls. These should be caulked from the inside to prevent moisture penetration. Outside caulking is needed where rain leakage is a problem.

Basement walls should also be checked for air leaks. This is easily done with a simple draft indicator made with a piece of plastic wrap or tissue attached to a coat hanger. The slightest draft will flutter the indicator.

The floor space over attached car ports or garages should also be checked for insulation. It's usually easier to check this area from below, opening up the ceiling in the car port. Insulation should have a RSI value of 3.5 (R20).

Don't Forget Windows

Windows are the area of greatest heat loss in most homes, but there are a number of ways to reduce this loss.

One effective method is to add another pane of glass. If possible, it should be added on the exterior of the original [illegible] inside can provide energy savings at a reasonable cost, they are usually not as effective as outside windows. This can result in moisture condensation between the panes of glass.

When winterizing your home consider replacing existing windows with sealed double or triple glazed windows with a 13 mm (½") air space.

Don't forget to also check windows, door frames and doors for air leaks. These leaks can cause higher heating costs, but are easily corrected with weatherstripping or caulking.

Another way to reduce heat loss through windows is to close the drapes after sundown. During the winter, drapes should be kept open in the day time in order to take advantage of the sun's warming rays.

Check The Furnace

Make sure your furnace will operate on cold winter days by cleaning or changing the filter, lubricating the motor, inspecting the belt and making sure that the air intakes are not obstructed. Also vacuum around burner and fan compartment areas. In the living areas of your home, make sure hot air registers are not covered by furniture, and that registers in unused rooms are closed.

When inspecting the furnace also check and clean the humidifier. If your home uses a portable humidifier, keep in mind that evaporation requires heat don't add too much water.

Dial Down and Save

Conserve energy and cut heating costs by adjusting the thermostat according to activities and time of day. For example, a temperature of about 21 degrees C (70 degrees F.) is appropriate when you are watching television or reading. When you are busy with house work or other activities, a temperature of 17 degrees C. (65 degrees F.) is more comfortable.

At night, lowering the temperature by five to seven degrees Celsius can provide energy savings of about 10 per cent over the year. An automatic setback control installed on the thermostat is also a good idea—it automatically sets the temperature back at night, and up again in the morning so you wake up to a warm house.

Hot Water Check

Your water heater which provides hot water for laundry, dishwashing and bathing is one of the biggest energy users in the home.

Inspect the hot water tank, and if necessary drain any sediment. The tank and the pipes

Humidifiers are a boon

Every Albertan has usually experienced it once. You walk across a room, touch an innocent looking object—and im mediately get zapped with static electricity.

These harmless but annoying static electric shocks are just one of the problems caused by inadequate humidity levels in our homes during cold winter months.

Dry heated air can create health problems, including stuffy noses, parched throats and dry skin. It can even contribute to the deterioration of furniture and carpets by robbing them of moisture. Low humidity levels can also cause us to feel constantly cold - even at temperature settings of 24 degrees C. (75 degrees F.).

The opposite condition—a humidity level that is too high—creates its own annoying problems: steamed windows and excessive, mildewing, water staining and even structural damage.

Inadequate or excessive humidity levels plagued many Alberta homes especially in the winter.

Relative humidity should be about 50 per cent.

Like a sponge, air can hold only a certain amount of water. However, unlike a sponge, the water holding capacity of air fluctuates with temperature—the higher the temperature the more water vapor the air can contain.

Relative humidity is a measure of the moisture content in the air. A relative humidity level of 50 per cent means that the air contains 50 per cent of the water it is capable of holding at that particular temperature.

This level, 50 percent, is an ideal average year round of relative humidity inside our homes. A lower level results in those familiar "dry air" problems, static electricity build up, dry throats, and so on. A higher level causes condensation and its related problems.

Correcting Low Humidity

Although washing, cooking, people and plants discharge moisture into the air, sometimes an additional source of water vapor is needed to boost the humidity level of 50 per cent. In our cold climate, and especially in older homes, a mechanical or electrical humidifier may be required.

Tune-up

leading to leaks should be well insulated. Also check the temperature setting on the thermostat. In many homes, the water temperature is set around 50 to 60 degrees C., but it can often be lowered [illegible] per summer use.

During the winter months, the demand for electricity is highest during the "peak load" hours of between 5 and 7 p.m. Avoid using your dishwasher, clothes washer or doing other activities which require electricity during these hours.

Consider Using Timers

Timers are an efficient way to manage energy consumption during the winter. Consider installing a timer for Christmas lights to ensure that they are not used during peak load hours or left burning longer than necessary. Timers are also an excellent idea for yard and security lighting. You can also save energy by using a timer to turn on your car's block heater in the morning an hour before using your car.

Keeping your Car in Shape

Canadians Burn More Than Gas When They Drive

"Close to one half of all vehicles in the Montreal and Toronto areas show evidence of improper engine maintenance and are therefore wasting fuel, excessively polluting the air and otherwise performing poorly."

This statement was made by Champion Spark Plug Company after conducting a spate of vehicle inspections. Preliminary findings in another test by Champion indicate that simply by proper maintenance an average improvement of 9% in fuel economy can be realized. After a thorough tune up, one car in the test achieved a reduction in fuel consumption of 53%!)

A well maintained car will last longer. Thus over your lifetime you need to buy fewer cars — yet another energy and money saver.

"More Than Smoke Goes Up The Chimney"

The traditional fireplace is very romantic and fascinating to watch. But it wastes energy. In fact, using a fireplace each night can cause a monthly heating bill by about 10%.

Even with the damper closed and the fire out a considerable amount of heat escapes up the chimney. Once the damper is opened, the heat loss is substantial. As the fire builds up a healthy crackle it draws more and more room air up the chimney, replacing it with colder air from outside. This colder air is drawn into the house through the cracks around doors and windows. The colder the outside air the greater the heat loss.

Reduce Heat Loss

You can reduce your heat loss by:

1. Using fireplace covers, such as glass doors or an inexpensive insulated fire resistant plug that you can make yourself. These can be closed while a fire does not and when the fireplace is not in use.
2. Using one of the new grates or metal fireplace liners, which increases the efficiency of your fire.
3. Burn all closing the flue once the fire is steadily burning and well banked (keep the opening large enough to allow a smoke to escape up the chimney.)
4. Sealing off an unused fireplace.

The Alternative

If you would really like the wood you burn to contribute to heating your home then consider an air tight, controlled combustion wood stove that can be fitted to the existing chimney. These air tight stoves come in many architecturally pleasing shapes and sizes but do require expert advice for installation and use.

Do Your Own Operation "Tune-up"

For the next week or so, drive as you normally would, recording the number of kilometres (miles) you drive and how much fuel you use. The accompanying chart will help you keep a record

Phase II

During the second week of the test, take your car in for a professional tune up, being sure to have your tire pressure wheel alignment, and brake drag checked. Use Phase II to practice driving according to the energy saving driving techniques listed below

Phase III

During the third week, in your tuned-up car using energy efficient driving habits, keep a record of distances driven and fuel consumption. Then calculate the gas used per km/mile and the vehicle's fuel consumption by comparing the fuel consumption between Phases I and III.

Weather can significantly affect fuel consumption. So if the temperature and weather conditions are drastically different between Phase I and III, you may want to test over again.

ENERGY-SAVING DRIVING TIPS

1 Try to maintain a constant highways speed of 90 km/h (55 mph). Most cars use about 20% less fuel when being driven at 90 km/h instead of 110 km/h (70 mph)

2 Avoid quick rabbit starts

3 Accelerate smoothly when passing or merging with fast traffic

4 Watch traffic well ahead of you so you can change lanes and or adjust speed smoothly

5 Anticipate stops ahead of time so that you can slow down gradually

6 Drive in the highest appropriate gear if you have a manual transmission. This gives you adequate acceleration without lugging the engine

7 Don't rest on your left foot on the brake pedal. It decreases brake efficiency, increases fuel consumption and can be dangerous

8 Turn off the motor if you are waiting for someone or caught in traffic jam

9 After starting drive away as soon as your engine is running smoothly. Long periods of idling for warm up the engine are unnecessary and harmful to the engine

10 Try to avoid traffic jams by staggering your work hours and or listening to traffic reports

11 Don't store heavy items in your trunk. Remove roof racks when not in use

12 Don't say "Fillet up." At breakfast will top off. Be tank to the brim causing spillage and wasting gas. Fill only to the first click-off

13 Minimize the use of air conditioners. They can increase fuel consumption by as much as 20% when they are operating

14 Maintain your car properly. Make sure that you get thorough Fall and Spring tune-ups

MECHANICS SUCH AS JIM JOHNSON are necessary to keep your car running at peak efficiency.

Less is Better

Now that gasoline is used by the litre and kilometres appear on new car odometers the system of rating fuel efficiency by mile age that is miles per gallon of fuel no longer applies

Fuel economy now becomes fuel consumption. Fuel consumption describes the cost of fuel used to drive a given distance and is measured in litres per hundred kilometres (L/100 km)

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

It means "Less is Better"

Whereas under the old system the higher the mileage the more economical the vehicle was the reverse is true. The smaller the fuel consumption figure the better. Thus a car that gets 8 L/100 km) uses less gasoline than a car with a fuel consumption of 10 L (100 km)

Tuned-up Cars Tuned-in Drivers

Phase I

The program is divided into three one-week phases. During Phase I the participants drive as usual and record their mileage and their gasoline consumption.

Phase II

In Phase II each car owner is prepared to go to the AMA Auto checking mechanical systems are checked as well as tires pressure oil filter, spark plugs, engine tune-up, fuel filter, lighting and proper alignment of the car. Minor adjustments and repairs are carried out. When necessary the car owner is provided with a new spark plugs, new points, gas filter, and so on. On the car are road-up energy tips presented in Chapter 4 of the book the drivers are weighed in and prepared for driving be bits. A seminar is organized to educate the volunteers who drive the cars. The AMA's The Car Mileage Book. Attention is focused on the 8 conservation improvement tactics outlined earlier. Total cost per car

To date the car Digest test fuel. In March of Ottawa driving a 1979 Buick the improved vehicle economy in energy 8.4 per cent a savings of over $300 per year. The average improvement in fuel economy was 17.6 per cent

In addition to reduced dollar and fuel savings cars has are property driven and maintained provide improved and more reliable performance. The life of the car will also be extended supplying even further energy and dollar savings

Put Your Power-Hungry Home On A Diet

Energy to run the refrigerator the stove the blender and kettle the electric frypan cookery pan steamer and pan warmer. We store energy in solid fuels when we burn energy in wood or in preparing or cooking the week's food bill for a fuel. 30% of the energy we use in transportation food we consume in the home. Much of the energy we waste with the heat down to open ing it is example 20% of heat you [illegible] ing the oven for [illegible] ing cooking time by [illegible] adding to the energy [illegible] of the stove.

Many of the causes of be lit yet high energy bill a been traced to simply following ing habits some. Every hot water tank opening be oven door oh when no stirs and closing quick is dabble for the refrigerator door, an do a lot to reduce your energy bill.

However following the energy saving method is not always so straightforward. Do you know for instance which uses less energy? The oven? The stove? The frypan? Or what about a slow cooker? Or a microwave oven?

The answer depends on such other elements as length of cooking quantities of food as well as the energy efficiency of the various appliances. For example

- The oven is the most energy wasteful way to cook. This is because not only the food but the entire oven cavity must be heated. There is also substantial heat loss through the walls and door. You do use the oven when you have good use of the heat by cooking a total oven meal when possible adapt foods you are cooked in the oven to the top of the stove.
- An electric frypan when it uses less electricity than the oven it is a heating wasteful as the frypan is usually left on [illegible] and [illegible] the heat [illegible] than [illegible] cooking the food. [illegible] electric frypan uses [illegible] more energy than [illegible] switching them on the small [illegible] the stove.

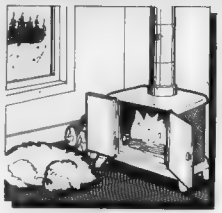
Wood-an alternate energy source for your home



A well-proven heat source in rural and urban areas alike, wood is the fuel that many Canadians choose to keep their homes warm. Over 2 million Canadian households burn wood for heating. Some do it because they live in areas where natural gas and electricity are not available, but others, even those in the population centres, do it because they still consider wood to be a cheap, reliable source of heat.

Like any heating system, wood has its advantages and disadvantages.

Renewable fuel

As an heat, wood heating can be economical, reliable, and comfortable. If it's are well managed, wood is a renewable fuel. Harvesting fuel wood in the right manner can even improve the quality of a woodlot or forest. Money spent on firewood stays within the local economy.

There can also be personal benefits such as exercise, fresh air and a sense of self-reliance when you heat your home with the wood from your own woodlot.

Can Be Expensive

As its saved, unless a reasonably priced source of firewood is available, wood heating can be as expensive as heating with oil or electricity. Wood, cut with a chainsaw and transported long distances in a truck, can have a high energy cost. Heating by wood can also be very dangerous, even for the experienced.

Wood burning could cause serious environmental problems in areas where people choose to burn it improperly or carelessly. Wood heating requires careful attention to safety if it is to provide a warm and relaxing fire and not a fire hazard.

Before You Buy

If after weighing the pros and cons, you've decided that wood heat is worthwhile for all or part of your heating needs, you must be willing to acquire the skills and knowledge that our forefathers (and mothers) took for granted.

Here are some points to consider when choosing and installing a wood stove or furnace.

- Do you have access to a reliable source of wood at a reasonable price?
- Is your home suitable for heating with wood? Will you, for example, have to install a chimney? If this is the case, a building permit may be necessary.
- Have you determined whether a wood stove or furnace is best for your needs? A fireplace, pleasant as it may be, is not an efficient way to produce heat. In fact, because old stoves are drawn in to replace warm room air that is sucked up the chimney, a fireplace contributes little or no heat to a room.
- Is the heater you're considering well made and airtight?
- Have you considered all aspects of the heating system? This includes not only the heater but also the stone pipe, chimney, floor and wall protection as well as any modifications that may be required. Look for the Canadian Standards Association or the Underwriters' Laboratory of Canada stamp of approval.
- For safe, efficient, wood heating, correct installation procedure is essential. The Canadian Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning Code sets out specific guidelines for installing all types of wood heaters.
- Your insurance agent must be notified if you install a wood heater. Since insurance premiums for wood heated homes can vary, you may want to shop around.

Vapor Barrier Is A Must

DO I REALLY NEED A VAPOUR BARRIER? IF SO, HOW DO I INSTALL IT AS I HAVE AN OLDER HOME THAT ALREADY HAS SOME INSULATION IN THE ATTIC?

Homebuilder In Sydney, N.S.

Yes, a vapour barrier is a must, since it prevents moisture from passing through and condensing inside the walls of your home. Moisture can reduce the effectiveness of your insulation and, in extreme cases, cause dry rot.

Install the vapour barrier of all polyethylene is recommended on the heated or room side of the insulation.

In older homes where a vapour barrier can't be installed without replacing the walls, two or three coats of oil base paint, or one coat of special vapour barrier paint or vinyl wallpaper on walls and ceilings will reduce the amount of moisture entering the cavity. Be sure to seal all cracks including those around plumbing vents and electrical fixtures. Weatherstrip the attic hatch or door.

If you are about to add insulation to your attic, check to see if there is already a vapour barrier. If mineral or glass fibre batts were used, check for a tar-impregnated or wax-coated kraft paper vapour barrier. (Black building papers are not effective vapour barriers.) Some batts are manufactured with a paper facing on both sides but only one of these is a vapour barrier. If these double faced batts were incorrectly installed, i.e. with the asphalt vapour barrier on the cold side, they should be turned. Make sure that the vapour barrier faces the warm side, before adding another layer of insulation.

THE excel POWER SAVER

The POWER SAVER is a thermostatically controlled cord that delays the operation of your block heater until your engine cools down enough to require heating. Energy savings are gained in two ways. Firstly, during the cool down period, which may be several hours. Secondly, by monitoring the heater hose, the POWER SAVER turns on and off (at -7°C, +20°F) to maintain the right engine temperature for quick, easy starts.

"How To Throw It Out"

Most Canadians are aware that energy is required to produce and cook our food, but how many of us consider the cost of throwing it out?

The Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC) has tried at both the energy and dollar costs of how we package our garbage.

The Winner Is . . .

The CAC study found that, over a 10-year period, there can be as much as a $200 saving if you buy and use a metal garbage pail instead of a less durable plastic pail.

The longer a container lasts the greater the savings. It was found that while some of the cheaper plastic pails had to be replaced each year the metal pails often lasted for 10 years.

– metal pails (lasting 10 years) would be	$ 10.00
– metal pails (lasting 5 years) would be	$ 17.00
– plastic pails (lasting 5 years) would be	$ 45.00
– plastic pails (lasting 1 year) would be	$227.00
– plastic bags (use and dispose) would be	$104.00

If plastic garbage bags are your preference, you may be spending almost $90 more over a 10-year period than your neighbour who uses a metal pail.

The metal pails were also the best energy buy. In fact, it was calculated that for every 375 households that switch from plastic bags to a durable metal pail of at least 10 years, enough energy is saved to heat an average home for one year.

The CAC's calculations are based on a weekly pick-up of two garbage bags or pails over a 10-year period. If you throw out only one bag or pail of garbage each week, cut your costs in half – you've saved both energy and money.) The following is a summary of it's findings.

The cost of buying

A typical sub compact car can achieve 11% better fuel economy with a 4-speed manual transmission than with an automatic transmission. New lock-up automatic transmissions which are available on several new models also achieve good fuel economy.

Any transmission, manual or automatic, with a higher number of gears will generally use less fuel than a transmission with fewer gears. Thus, the most energy efficient is either a 5-speed manual transmission, or a lock up automatic transmission.

Car air conditioners operating at maximum output can increase fuel consumption by as much as 20%. The more powerful an air conditioner will add extra weight to the car and can reduce fuel economy by as much as 4% in sub compacts.

A 6-cylinder engine averages 15%-20% better fuel economy than a V-8 engine.

Cars use the largest single consumer of petroleum in the country — they consume 20% of petroleum fuels. At current growth rates, that percentage is due to increase significantly.

Of all mechanical modes of transportation, the bicycle is the most efficient. That is it travels the greatest distance per unit of energy.

Home energy use can be easily reduced

As oil prices soar and the danger of supply interruption continues, you may be one of the many Canadians considering converting from an oil to a gas furnace. Or, perhaps, switching to electrical heating seems like a wise move. However, do remember that conversions may save oil but they still use energy.

There are many factors to take into account when considering the various heating fuels, a major one being cost. Before you switch to another fuel, you should investigate ways to reduce your heating bill by increasing the efficiency of your existing system. Insulating and simply turning down your thermostat are two ways of safely and easily reducing your fuel bill. In which case the advantage of switching to another fuel may be significantly lessened.

But will changing fuels actually save you money? And if so how much?

To determine the cost of using another fuel, use the following table to help you convert the amount of fuel you get from the equivalent amount of an alternative fuel. Simply multiply the amount of fuel you get now, say, in gallons, kilos or cubic feet, by the conversion factor shown in the table. Then multiply that amount by the unit cost of the alternative fuel (use prices in your area).

Once you've calculated the cost of using an alternative fuel, the actual cost of conversion must be taken into account. Consult local fuel dealers to get estimates on the cost of conversion and then divide this cost by the total savings to get a rough idea of the payback period.

If you are considering converting to natural gas, you should be aware that the lower temperatures and higher moisture content of natural gas fired systems can lead to condensation in and deterioration of a brick chimney. In most cases, this can be avoided by the installation of a steel chimney liner. Be sure to include the cost of the liner and its installation in your conversion calculations.

Conversion to natural gas is often carried out by changing only the burner in the furnace. However, if you are thinking of replacing your entire furnace and are looking at gas, you may want to consider purchasing a new high efficiency gas furnace. These furnaces, which are 90% 95% efficient, compared to the 60% efficiency rating in conventional gas furnaces, should be available within the year.

Conversion factors for fuels
Natural gas	1 cubic foot = 1.0
Propane	1 gallon = 2.5
Oil	1 gallon = 3.5
Electricity	1 kilowatt hour = 10.0
Coal	1 kilo = 1.0
Wood	1 cubic foot = 1.0

LENNOX PULSE

The Most Efficient Gas Furnace in the World!

Unprecedented Heating Efficiency

If your present gas furnace is over five years old, it is probably in the range of 55 to 60% efficient, compared to the Pulse's 91 to 96%. The difference can mean drastic reductions in your monthly heating bills - enough to justify replacing your present unit today, even if it still operates. The Pulse furnace is that efficient. Even if your system is a newer "high efficiency" model, you can still save big with the Lennox Pulse.

Annual supper is tonight

Breton News
by Lois Dyck
696-2

The United Church Women will hold their annual turkey supper on Oct. 27 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the church base ment. Everyone is welcome to come. Watch for price on posters around town.

The Breton and District Rural Fire Protection held their regular monthly meeting Oct. 18 in the Breton Civic Centre. A membership to join the Fire Protection is $100 to join and if you already have a membership the yearly fee is $10. If you have any questions come to the next meeting of the Breton and District Rural Fire Protection on Nov 8 at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Breton Civic Centre.

The Breton Community Club will hold a Hallowe'en dance on Oct. 30 in the Breton Community Hall. This is a costume dance so hurry and get them made.

October 16 the children got a holiday from school as the teachers had to attend teachers' institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jackson have returned from a month-long visit to eastern Canada They toured the Maritimes with Lucille's brother, Chester Pernemas One evening was spent with Ken and Olive Haines. Olive's maiden name was Heighington and she grew up in the Breton area. A visit with Chester's daughter and granddaughter was enjoyed when they got back to London, Ont., from their tour of the Maritimes. His daughter and granddaughter had just arrived from Victoria.

Thanksgiving Day guests at the Alfred Jackson home were Ernie and Cameron Jackson and a friend and Corrine Winick and Bruce Falls.

The exceptional weather that we have been having is really helping the farmers to get their crops harvested and giving the wives time to get the last of the garden in before winter descends upon us

New board elected at annual meeting

Moon Lake News

By Alma Johnson
TXT-2313

Ray and Diane Tufty and family, Richard and Laurie Woloszyn and boys, Glenn and Charlene and Norm and Alma Johnson, all of this area, attended the Polled Hereford production sale at the 4-T Ranch at Evansburg on Oct. 9.

Supper guests that same evening at the Norm Johnson home were Roger and Wendy Peters of Delbourne, Alta.

The annual meeting for the Moon Lake Hall board was recently held with the election of officers. The new president is George Cherrington, with Chester Town still holding the vice-president job. Secretary again is Debbie Town. The five directors are: Glenn Johnson, Linda Walpar, Bruce Block, Jay Town and Dorlene Banks. Meetings are the third Wednesday of every month at 8 p.m. and all members are most welcome.

Rick and Shirley Cherrington and family of Bowden were home to visit family and friends on the Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

Edna Mortensen and boys of Drumheller were visiting with her mother and brother and family on the Thanksgiving weekend. They also motored to Whitecourt to enjoy a dinner with her son and wife, Rick and Mona Rockwell.

Don and Lola Murphy of Busby were visitors at the home of Duane and Linda Mason one evening recently.

Visitors at the Glenn Johnson home to enjoy a meal and look at cattle were Dale Stoddart and Larry Coolidge of Lashburn, Sask., John Schwartz of Loomis, Scotty Summers of Bluffton and Doug Nead of the 4-T Ranch at Evansburg.

Norm and Glenn Johnson and their wives attended the Caine Cattle Co. production sale at Leduc on Thanksgiving Monday.

Don and Spud Cherrington attended the wedding reception for Carey and Sherry Brown in Edmonton on Oct. 9. Carey is the son of Grant and Marge Brown and grandson of Evelyn Jensen. Mr. and Mrs. Carey Brown were married in Las Vegas, Nevada, U.S.A., the weekend before Thanksgiving.

Weigh-in for 4-Hers

By Nancy Hunka

The Two Rivers 4-H Beef Club had their weigh-in at the Haderer, Pederson Ranch. We would like to thank Mr. Otto Guse for being our weigh master and Mr. Pederson and Mr. Haderer for letting us use their scale. The club would like to thank these gentlemen for their support of the club.

Between The Covers

Hallowe'en began in British Isles

Hallowe'en was once a serious and frightening event; many hundreds of years ago in England, Scotland, Ireland and other places. November 1 was the beginning of the new year. It was called "Summer's End" and marked the beginning of the winter season. People thought there was a war of sorts between winter (cold and dark) and summer (warm and green), when the "army" of winter – ghosts, goblins, witches and evil creatures – grew very strong and destroyed summer.

Summer's End, Oct. 31, frightened the people for they believed the night held all sorts of evil creatures which were out celebrating. To scare away these wicked beings, the people built large bonfires, wore masks and costumes.

Later, Christianity came to these countries. November 1 became a holiday – All Saints' Day or All Hallows' Day, honoring saints or holy ones. (Hallow means holy.) The night before All Hallows' Day, Oct. 31, was called All Hallows' E'en (evening) which eventually became known as Hallowe'en. People continued the old customs of Summer's End, remembering ghosts, goblins, witches became powerful on Hallow'en and that special costumes and masks protected the people from such evils.

Today, Hallowe'en is still a time for ghosts and monsters in scary costumes. October 31 was once a terrifying night but now it is just a time for children in Canada, the United States and British Isles, especially, to wear costumes and have spooky fun!

The library will be giving away some pumpkins on Oct. 29 and 30. If you would like to make a real Jack-o-lantern, get your name in now! There is a limit of one entry per patron each library visit. Happy Hallowe'en, boys and girls!

Wishing Well news

By Belle Cahoon

On Oct. 20 Ann Parenteau took three ladies over to Darwell to see the handicrafts being shown in the hall there. There were some beautiful articles made by the Women's Institute. It was so nice and a lovely turnout; I enjoyed seeing such lovely work.

Edith Craig came in from the hospital and was to be home over the weekend. Her daughter Hazel from Darwell came over to be with her, since she is not able to help herself at all. Her son and his wife came in from the U.S. and have been here to see her. She'll be going back to the hospital Monday.

Thelma Lucaas will be going to a nursing home in Stony Plain. We all wish you all the happiness, Thelma. Good luck.

Rachel Anderson is in the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton. She's not doing well, we're so sorry.

Mrs. Dusterhoft is home from the hospital. We are glad to have you home, Emilia. Her arm is doing really well. She's sort of weak and she's glad to be in her own home.

Our bingos have been doing real well and we've had good turnouts. The lunch after bingo is always so nice.

Well, you'd better look out. The goblins are coming this weekend, so drivers be careful, we want them home alive.

Plants make a difference to your home

By Shayne Harden
Work Experience Student
542-5368

In recent years, plants in the home have become fashionable, in addition to being wanted for their own beauty. Architects and interior decorators now realize and appreciate the atmosphere of warmth and life created by plants. Consequently, contemporary home designs nearly always include locations for plants. Older, more conveniently styled houses also afford appropriate settings, but since less thought was given to plants in their design, the choice of good locations is more limited.

In choosing plants for the home the two most important considerations are: the brightness of the location, and the most suitable size of plant. The brightness of the location largely determines what plants can grow there satisfactorily; some plants require more light than others. The size of the plant should be in keeping with the location. One should not set a five-foot plant on top of a piano or a tiny cactus in a bare corner of a large room. These are exaggerated examples, but they illustrate the need for care in selecting the best plant for a particular location.

Fortunate are those who can appreciate that in the growth and development of a plant they are seeing one of the greatest phenomena of this earth. The tiny thread of living fiber where there was only bare earth the day before; the unfolding of young embryonic leaves; the gradual development from bud to flower; all these phases in the growth of a plant overshadow even the most intricate nuclear marvel man's genius has ever created. For in the growth of a plant we are dealing with life.

Alberta Agriculture will hold a house plant seminar conducted in the Provincial Building conference room. The seminar will be done by Betty Vladicka, the extension horticulturist, running from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Nov. 23. There will be a $5 registration fee. This course requires a minimum of 20 registrants and pre-registration is required. Give us a call at 542-5368 or drop by the office to register.

PROPANE

- the now alternative to gasoline -

Since 1973, the rapidly growing cost of gasoline and the unsettled supply situation, even here in Canada, has spurred Canadians to seek alternative fuel supplies. Of the many alternatives available, propane is the most practical fuel to power vehicles for the eighties:

Why Convert Your Gasoline Fleet To ICG Auto Propane?

* More plentiful
* Longer engine life
* Cuts down servicing
* More efficient

Price Range on Propane Conversions $1250. & Up with 55 Gal. Tank

Propane Cost & Availability
-Propane already costs significantly less than gasoline in most of Canada, and the price gap is likely to widen.
-The Government is monitoring propane prices and availability to ensure that new markets are adequately developed.
-Propane is widely available in Canada from propane distributors although some may not yet be equipped to sell propane for vehicles.

Federal Government Incentive
In order to encourage conversion from gasoline to propane, the Government of Canada will rebate $400. of the cost of conversion of fleets.
This request is a substantial proportion of the total cost of converting the average vehicle.

Equipment Inventory
ICG and Gillis Oilfield Construction Ltd. keeps an inventory of ICG AUTO-PROPANE/IMPCO parts on hand for rapid conversion of large or small fleets on short notice. In addition to ensuring safety of supply through our local warehousing of conversion components, we are embarked upon an agressive program to have as many of these components manufactured in Canada as possible.

Conversion Supervision
ICG's concern for the proper operation of your fleet on ICG AUTO-PROPANE extends to offering you technical experts who will supervise the conversion and ensure your fleet will be in top operating condition from the start. If you have a large fleet to convert then we will assign a Project Management Group to your fleet to make your conversion program to ICG AUTO-PROPANE a reality.

Proven-Technology
ICG Canadian Propane Ltd. has the technological experience to be the first in Canada to offer a comprehensive warranty on an approved conversion from a gasoline fuelled motor to ICG AUTO-PROPANE.

Last days of October leading to blood month

Five days remain in October. Then we will be in what the Anglo-Saxons called blood month, and we will enter it through the portals of a holiday now called Hallowe'en.

With the moon in second quarter and the sign in Aquarius, which rules the legs, you could think of walking down to the stores to shop for Hallowe'en treats and costumes.

Aquarius is a sociable sign and you'll find yourself drawn into the spirit of things, appreciating store decors, and having no trouble either buying or making colorful, electric, eye-catching costumes.

October 28 and 29 we will be in the imaginative sign of Pisces and still in second quarter.

Enjoy your imagination. Let yourself go. Throw yourself into the spirit of Hallowe'en and enjoy an escape from reality. This is the time for costumes and plays. Ghost stories will come to life and school parties will be the best ever. Have a party at work or after work, too. Enjoy Hallowe'en as it can rarely be enjoyed.

October 30 and 31 the moon will be in Aries as well as in second quarter. Emphasis will shift to the head. Costumes designed now will tend toward masks and wigs as focal points. Costume make-up will be popular, too. Paint on moustaches and huge red lips.

A Farm Wife's Almanac

by Joanne Benger

Trick-or-treaters will do well, for the contents of your bags will grow and increase like the moon, which is so bright you'll hardly need a flashlight.

Parties now will be less imaginative and more intellectual. People who gloried at shivering at ghost stories during Pisces will now think that's silly, and tend toward more serious entertainment—like devining the future.

There will be interest in Hallowe'en customs and their origins. And there will be memories of Hallowe'ens past, tinged with nostalgia.

November 1 and 2 the moon will be in the sensible, earthy sign of Taurus. Full moon occurs the first as well.

In Taurus, the emphasis is on security and hanging on to what you've got. Children will be greedy with the contents of their loot bags.

Whose lucky week is it?

Cancer folk are our spunkiest gamblers now with those having birthdays between June 30 and July 7 luckiest until Hallowe'en night. Nov. 1 shifts the greatest luck to those born between July 8 and 17. Every year between Oct. 24 and Nov. 22, Cancer is our luckiest sign. The lucky number to remember is 11, which reduces to 2. This makes election day truly lucky for you. If you aren't running, you should have!

Important days this week: lost among Hallowe'en and election day are Nov. 1, All Saints Day, and Nov. 2, All Souls Day, and the night between "when the bodiless gang about."

Sekura report

On offer at Sekura Auctions for the week ending Oct. 23 were 1,071 head of livestock.

Cripps re-elected

Shirley Cripps rolled to victory in the Drayton Valley constituency as the PC candidate in Alberta's 1982 provincial election. Cripps took an early lead as the vote count began to come in shortly after the polls closed at 8 p.m. last night. The Conservatives swept the polls to take a fourth consecutive term under the leadership of Premier Peter Lougheed. Following her victory she said she wished to thank her opponents for running and offering the public a choice.

Well catches fire

By Stuart Adams

Wild well control specialist Joe Bowden and crew mate Byron Lee escaped injury when the gas well they were attempting to cap caught fire on Monday afternoon. "Everything was set up and they were in the final steps towards shutting in the well," said Amoco spokesman Dick Nichols.

He said Mr. Bowden was in charge and the two men were the only people on the site at the time. "There was no one else allowed within a kilometer of the site."

The two specialists were about 70 meters from the rig when the gas caught fire. "They had protective suits on and had taken safety precautions which included a safety plan of action," he added.

Condensate surrounding the rig also caught fire. "The initial quantity of smoke from the fire was caused by the burning condensate in the dyked area of the well site," said Hollie Johnson in an Amoco news release.

"A video recorder was approximately three kilometers from the well site and was turned on seconds before the fire began," continued Miss Johnson.

"At the time it caught fire several lengths of drill pipe were blown out of the hole," said Mr. Nichols after seeing the video tape.

"About five minutes after the fire began the derrick collapsed."

As of Tuesday afternoon smoke from the burning condensate was still obscuring the rig from view. He said once the team is able to see the rig they'll be able to assess the situation and make further plans. Initially the debris from the rig will have to be cleaned up. "Beyond that it depends on what they find."

Now that the well is on fire the hydrogen sulfide gas is burning and becoming the much less dangerous sulfur dioxide. It occasionally has a rotten-egg smell, but its effects will be far less harmful.

"The big thing for our purposes is it removes the poisonous gas problem and allows our people to work in the area," said Mr. Nichols.

PetroCanada's Brazeau Gas Plant has been shut down a number of times since the gas well blew out. The plant is about 10 kilometers from the blowout.

PetroCan spokesman Chris Morrison said it was shut down initially on October 24 at 10 a.m. and restarted at 3 p.m. on October 27. It operated normally until October 28 when it was shut down for two hours, and then continued until it was shut down the next day for three hours and finally 16 hours on October 31.

"We pulled our people out and shut the plant in because of the hydrogen sulfide," she said.

"Once the levels get past 15 parts per million it gets dangerous.

"We didn't want to take any chances, it's safety first as far as we're concerned."

PetroCanada operates the plant and is partners with Amoco, Texaco and Chevron in the facility. The plant production is part of a natural gas, tertiary recovery operation which employs three injection wells and eight recovery wells.

"The loss is estimated to be $250 thousand dollars for each full day the plant is out of operation," said Miss Morrison.

Program goes ahead

By Chris Skanahan

An $85,000 community development project originally rejected by Town council received the go-ahead when reintroduced at the regular council meeting on Oct. 26.

Councillor Alex Salfi voted in favor of the federally-sponsored program when it first came up at a meeting on Oct. 7, and he is pleased with the new decision.

"I was for it all the way," Mr. Salfi said. "It will not cost the town anything, and I think it will benefit everyone involved."

The $85,000 grant is to be used to hire four or

Hallowe'en quiet

Drayton Valley RCMP report a quiet Hallowe'en compared to past years, with no arrests or charges resulting from the weekend activities.

Expecting a busy time on Saturday evening, RCMP increased their patrols of the entire area, Corporal Chris Lee explained.

However, he said that although bars were full and local dances were well attended, "all persons were extremely well behaved."

Cpl. Lee noted that many parents took a "special interest" in Hallowe'en activities this year, particularly on Sunday evening. Parents kept close watch on their children during trick or treating, he added.

There were increased foot patrols and patrolling in residential neighborhoods while the young people were out on Sunday, the corporal said.

"This was done more as a reassurance to parents that although the treated candy scare exists, we're fortunate in this town not to be subjected to such behavior," Cpl. Lee commented.
